DETAILED ACTION

1. This office action is in response to amendment filed on September 18, 2007. Claims 1-26 are now pending in the application.

2. Applicants arguments have been fully considered but are not found persuasive and therefore, rejection of claims 1, 2, 4, 5, 10, 11, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 22, 23, 24, 25 under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kamo et al. (US 6,589,324 B2) and rejection of claims 1-5, 10, 11, 14-25 under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kambe et al. (US 6,599,631 B2) are all sustained. Additionally, allowability indicated for claims 6, 9, 13 and 26 and amended claim 12 is maintained.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claim 12 is allowed.

Presently cited claim is allowable over closest prior art of record to Kamo et al. (US 6,589,324 B2) and Kambe et al. (US 6,599,631 B2). Neither art discloses aqueous dispersions comprising polymers as recited in instant claim.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicants' argue that a prima facie case of obviousness has not been met because Kamo et al. do not explicitly teach an aqueous dispersion comprises at least one swellable polymer.

Examiner notes that Kamo et al. discloses an acrylic resin containing hydroxyl and/or carboxyl groups so as to disperse the resin in aqueous solvent (col. 7, lines 20-30). Additionally, the disclosed solvents compatible with water include propanol and isopropanol (col. 18, lines 38-42). Given that a substantially overlapping pH range of 1.5-3.5 is disclosed, and given that the compositional requirements are met, the acrylic resin must be swellable as recited in instant claim 1.

With regard to applicant's arguments on the phosphorus compound in the compositions of Kamo et al., as correctly pointed out by the applicant, the transitional phrase "comprising" in the instant claim language does not exclude the phosphorus compound from the presently claimed composition. Thus, examiner contends that Kamo et al. does not teach away from the present invention despite the presence of phosphorus compound in Kamo's compositions.

Applicants argue that the prior art to Kambe et al. uses cosolvent where as the present invention claims an aqueous dispersion. Given that Kambe et al. teach nonaqueous solvent or aqueous solutions with less polar solvents, alcohol-based dispersants and anionic polymers as well as polymers with hydrophilic group, and given that an amphiphile as recited in present claims reads on solvents less polar than water and alcohol-based dispersants, examiner maintains that the combination must result in an aqueous dispersion. Additionally, although the prior art is open to use of alcohols with no specific amounts recited, cosolvents are typically used in small amounts and therefore, the amount of 1-10% as presently claimed is obvious to a skilled artisan, absent evidence to criticality of the claimed range.

Action Is Final

5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
